

About this report

We've customized this report based on your answers to the test. Some results will be very accurate while others may miss the mark.

Who You Are

You're a hidden prince

You're a man with a very balanced personality and lifestyle. You believe in making room in life to relax, think, and have fun. You refuse to settle long-term for a boring job or doing something just because it's expected of you. Love is the same way. You know what real love feels like and you'll accept no imitations! You're honest, straightforward, and have lots of common sense. Because you don't "wear your heart on your sleeve" doesn't mean you lack deep feelings. In fact, you're deeply committed to your loved ones and the causes you believe in. Men as truly balanced as you are very rare.

What's dating all about to you?

Falling in love is a spiritual experience for you. A truly loving relationship helps bring meaning to your life. You try hard to make your date feel comfortable and have a good time. You're good at anticipating what other people need and giving it to them. But inside, you're usually on an emotional roller coaster. You don't want to reject nice women, but also take it very personally if you're the one rejected. You're constantly trying to find the "rules" for successful dating but often find they don't work.

You face two major challenges in finding the love of your life. First, because you're shy, you feel like you have to be someone else or "wear a mask" to go out and meet new people. You're left feeling like a distant observer, and women find it hard to truly understand you. Second, although your compassion for women is a very attractive quality, your focus on her can get in the way of getting what you want and need.

Here's how you compare with other men your age

How social are you?

Where's your focus?

How do you run your life?

How unique is your type?

Your personality profile is similar to a number of men your age. Looking at over 10,000 men who have taken the test, about 9% (or 1 in 11 men) have very similar beliefs, values, and habits. Of course, the way these qualities are expressed in you is what makes you so unique.

How many other men have personalities like you?

Quirks women notice

Like all men, you have your strengths as well as your quirks and shortcomings. Ultimately, you want to find someone who will love and accept you "warts and all." Because you're a private person, it's especially important that you find a partner who understands.

- You have a pretty even-tempered personality and may not have any especially annoying or quirky habits. Of course, seeming to be "perfect" could be seen as a flaw by some, in which case you may just want to pretend to have a bad habit!

Do women like your type?

Notice that 43% of women are generally attracted to your personality type. 2% say they are VERY attracted. With the millions of people on Match.com, that translates into lots of potential matches.

How many women are attracted to your type?

- Very attracted to your personality: 2%
- Attracted to your personality: 41%
- Neutral or Indifferent about these traits: 56%
- Turned off by these traits: 1%

Who You're Looking For

She'll come to your rescue

You're looking for a woman who can be a pillar of strength and stability in your life. You want a woman you can count on to do what she says and say what she means. You'll be impressed by how responsible, strong-willed and hardworking she is. If you're ever in a crisis, she's definitely the woman you'd want to come to your rescue. She's very intuitive and has a lot of "common sense." She has a shy and reserved exterior, but one-on-one you'll find she talks openly about herself and what's important to her. She'll dress and act conservatively, but behind her serious exterior is a very loyal and faithful potential partner.

You don't expect your partner to be in a good mood all the time. You understand that sometimes your partner will be down, get pessimistic or worry too much. These days are balanced by the many good days the two of you will share. In fact, you share a number of positive qualities, including:

- No strong similarities were detected, which suggests that you may be more attracted to certain "opposite qualities." Please read the next sections to see if you may be seeking someone with different or opposite qualities to balance your own habits and style.

Here's how you compare to your "ideal" partner

How social are you?

Where's your focus?

How do you run your life?

How's your mood?

Number of women your type

Women with the exact type of personality you prefer are rare gems. Looking at over 10,000 women who have taken this test, only 5% (or 1 in 20 women) have the exact combination of similarities and contrasts in personality you find extremely appealing.

However, there's a larger group, 19% (or 1 in 5 women), who have most, but not all, of the qualities and habits you like. These subgroups are charted below.

More than One-third of the women have at least some of the traits you find attractive.

But you'd have a negative reaction to 6% (or 1 in 16 women), who have some or many of the characteristics you clearly dislike.

How many women are your "ideal" type?

- Exactly your type: 5%
- Mostly your type: 14%
- Somewhat your type: 17%
- Mostly NOT your type: 58%
- Definitely NOT your type: 6%

Finding someone like you

You want to share your life with someone who has the same values, goals, and style you have. Research has shown that couples who have more in common tend to stay together longer. The qualities you find attractive (and unattractive) in women suggest you would certainly be happier with a woman who's more like you.

- No very strong opposites were detected, which suggests that you are most attracted to women who are very similar to you. This is good news since similar couples tend to stay together longer.

Quirks you can tolerate

The truth is that everyone is potentially "high maintenance." We all have our quirks and shortcomings. The key to long-term harmony is finding a woman who can tolerate (or maybe even enjoy) your "quirks," or the little personal oddities that make you unique. You seem okay with several common quirks that might come along with your "ideal" woman:

- You described a pretty balanced person as most attractive to you, so no strong quirks were noted. Watch out for quirks during dating, since they may indicate a strong quality that is hidden at first.

Downside of your "ideal"

In addition to her quirks, your "ideal" personality type may have other qualities that are more frustrating or challenging to deal with. Under stress, her quirks can become serious "flaws." But remember, these quirks are the "flip side of the coin," or the extreme end of qualities you otherwise find appealing. So, be prepared if:

- Because you're most attracted to women with balanced personalities, no troubling differences were noted. Nevertheless, remember that too much similarity can lead to conflict as well, especially when problems call for very different perspectives or actions.

Deal breakers

You seem ready to adapt to the good and frustrating qualities of the women you're looking for, but there are types of women you clearly do NOT like. Women's habits and attitudes you'd have a hard time putting up with include:

- Women who need frequent reminders that you care about them and would be upset if they thought you found another woman physically attractive.
- Women who are moody or overly negative.
- Idealistic or artistic women who get lost in their own world as they pursue their dreams.

Trade-offs you'll face

Good Qualities	Challenging Qualities
Cares deeply for a few very close friends.	Has little desire to branch out and meet new people.
Uses "common sense" to make practical decisions.	Can lack imagination and stick to traditional solutions even if you suggest newer and better options to explore.
Can step back and look objectively at a problem, which can be helpful to you in any crisis.	Almost impossible to turn off analysis and thinking about what's happening.
Takes time to look at a problem and keep options open, rather than rush in.	Often postpones making decisions until the situation decides for you.

Sex

Lots of sexual passion

As you probably know, you have a higher sex drive than most! You give and receive pleasure easily. The connection you feel from making love energizes and comforts you in a way most people wouldn't understand. Plus, your vivid imagination fuels a variety of fantasies you'll explore with your lucky future partner.

Among men your age, your particular combination of sexual drive and interests is similar to more than half (56%).

Is she sexually compatible?

You're looking for someone who'll share your enthusiasm for keeping sex exciting and new. You value the quality of sex, even if it means the quantity or frequency of sex is lower than you'd like.

What's ahead for you sexually?

If you end up with a woman less sexually charged than you, you'll have two options: open up your partner's "wild," sexual side or settle into a relationship with less sex, but more affection. Improving the quality of sex, rather than simply the quantity, would be relatively easy for someone like you. If you can bring your natural creativity and imagination to the bedroom, your sex life will never be boring. You know what it's like to emotionally connect with someone and truly make love (vs. just having sex). If you've truly connected with a woman this way, you'll be willing to work through any differences.

How you and your "ideal" partner compare

Sex Drive

Sexually adventuresome?

Attraction Science

What is personality?

Personality is the set of traits and characteristics that make each of us unique yet relatively stable and consistent over time.

- People see and interpret the world differently.
- They want different things.
- They make decisions differently.
- They get excited and energized by different situations.
- They structure their careers, social life, and private time in different ways.

What does personality have to do with attraction?

The way in which people are similar or different in personality strongly affects their attraction to one another. Two people with similar values are more likely to become (and stay) friends or a couple, indeed part of compatibility is having "common ground." However, for many people, compatibility may also involve a balance between each other's quirks and differences.

Where did the test come from?

The test you just took is the most scientifically grounded and customized personality assessment on the Internet. It's a "smart" test because it can tailor specific questions to you based on your earlier choices so no one gets exactly the same questions. The content of the tests and the game-like way the choices were presented are the result of over 15 years of research by the scientists at weAttract.com, Inc.

For more details go to: weAttract.com

---

Privacy Policy | Contact Us

©Copyright 2003 Match.com, L.P. All Rights Reserved.